Dean disputes black studies critique

By Adam Broac
Staff Writer

Luke Tripp, Coordinator of the University's Black American Studies program, has claimed that the University administration has targeted the BAS program for elimination and that he will be denied tenure because of the elimination.

But Seymour Bryson, Dean of the College of Human Resources said, "One should separate the status of Dr. Tripp's situation with the status of Black American Studies."

Black studies being dismantled, activist says

BAS is part of the College of Human Resources.

Bryson said Tripp's proposal, now being considered by the acting vice president for academic affairs, has not received much support.

In a letter to a state Sen. Richard Newhouse, D-Chicago, Tripp cited the elimination of BAS program's full-time faculty positions and the elimination of BAS courses from the general education curriculum as examples of diminishing administrative support for the program.

Newhouse is a member of the Senate higher education committee. A copy of Tripp's letter was obtained from a source who asked to remain anonymous.

Sixty-two courses were dropped from the general education curriculum before the start of the Fall 1985 semester. The only two BAS courses in the curriculum were among those dropped.

Bryson denied that the BAS

Late rally encourages Simon camp

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — After a week that would have tested any candidate, Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois took a serene leap of faith Monday over polls and pundits, and landed on the side of optimism.

While most surveys show him running neck and neck with Rep. Richard A. Gephardt in New Hampshire, the senator essentially declared himself the winner of the battle for second place in New Hampshire's Democratic primary on Tuesday.

Stretching faith even further, Simon said he might even place first on Tuesday, notwithstanding the 20-point lead that Gov. Michael S. Dukakis of Massachusetts has in most of the public opinion polls.

"My feeling is we're taking second place," the senator told reporters Monday at Newmarket High School. "The question is, what's going to be the difference between Mike Dukakis and Paul Simon. There is a possibility that we might pull an upset."

Simon's reach for a winning image comes after a difficult week. His loss in Iowa to Gephardt raised questions about the senator's candidacy among many political professionals: the Simon campaign spent much of the week waving off last rites, hustling to show that the campaign lived and breathed and would endure in primaries and caucuses to come.

A half-million dollars in debt already, the campaign borrowed money for an advertising drive and assailed Gephardt's record from one

Live burial leads to arrest of Israeli soldiers

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The army arrested two soldiers Monday accused of trying to bury alive four Arab youths after a riot in a West Bank village and a secret group allegedly directing Palestinian protests issued its first public call for attacks on Jewish settlers in occupied Arab lands.

During unrest Monday, Palestinian and hospital sources said Nabil Al Khateb, 28, was shot and wounded by soldiers who broke up protests in the Shuafat refugee camp in northern Jerusalem.

Scattered protests also were reported in towns and U.N.-run refugee camps in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip and curfews were in effect in five villages and camps.

Military officials, whose soldiers have been accused of indiscriminately beating civilians during the unrest sweeping the occupied Arab lands, said they were shocked at charges troops and a Jewish settler assaulted Arab youths and ordered a bulldozer operator to bury them in a foot of dirt Feb. 5. The youths survived.

"In my worst dreams, I never could imagine that soldiers could do what was done," said Maj. Gen. Amram Mitzna, commander of the Central District, which includes the West Bank.

An army spokesman said an inquiry was continuing into the incident in the West Bank village of Salem, near Nablus, 30 miles north of Jerusalem.

"The investigation has been given the highest priority. Two soldiers have been arrested and additional arrests are expected," the spokesman

Teacher makes finals in ISU search

5 finalists vie for dean's job

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

A University professor is one of five finalists for dean of Illinois State University's College of Education.

William Eaton, professor of education and chairperson of the University's Department of Educational Administration and Higher Education, said he did not want to comment "until a final decision" on the dean's post had been made by the ISU search committee. He was interviewed in Normal in January by ISU faculty and staff.

The Bloomington Pantagraph reported Saturday that the committee ended Friday its interviews of the five candidates. The article said the committee's goal is to recommend a replacement for former Dean William Dunifon to ISU President Lloyd Watkins in early March.

Watkins will then ask the ISU Board of Regents to act on the recommendation later that month.

Before a recommendation is given to Watkins, the search committee will review evaluations by faculty and staff who met with the candidates during the on-campus interviews.

After reviewing the evaluations, the search committee will choose the top three candidates.

When this step is completed, ISU Provost David Strand and Glenn Grever, search committee chairman, will visit the campuses of the highest-ranked candidates.

Waldheim defends silence concerning wartime role

VIENNA (UPI) — President Kurt Waldheim defiantly told Austria Monday his conscience is clear in the face of accusations he committed war crimes as a German army officer, although he — like others of his generation — "fell under the machinery of war." Referring to a six-member military historians' commission that last week concluded he concealed, lied about or diminished the degree of his alleged involvement in deportations of Jews to death camps, Waldheim said that perhaps his silence was a mistake, but it was not a strategy of concealment.

Shamir knocks plan for Palestinian autonomy

ROME, Italy (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir despite increasing international criticism over his country's handling of Palestinian unrest, underlined his opposition Monday to a U.S. plan for autonomy for the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. Shamir met briefly with Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti on his arrival at heavily guarded Leonardo da Vinci Airport, the site of a December 1985 massacre by Palestinian militants.

Human rights commission condemns Israel

GENEVA (UPI) — The U.N. Commission on Human Rights, with only the United States voting no, Monday condemned Israel for the systematic refusal to honor humanitarian conventions in its occupied territories. A resolution by the 43-nation commission also accused Israel of the ill-treatment and torture of Palestinian detainees and prisoners.

Lithuanian officials stage anti-U.S. protests

VILNIUS, Lithuania, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — Officials staged an anti-American demonstration Monday on the eve of expected anti-Soviet protests marking the 70th anniversary of Lithuania's brief taste of independence. President Reagan, with support from the U.S. Congress, issued a proclamation Thursday calling for observance of the 1918 anniversary despite Soviet protests that it is interference in its internal affairs. Although officials said no nationalist demonstrations would take place today, scores of volunteer militia and uniformed police patrolled the main parks and squares on the eve.

U.S. tests nuclear bomb; arms talks resume

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — The earth above ground zero collapsed shortly after U.S. scientists successfully detonated the nation's first 1988 underground nuclear weapons test Monday simultaneous with the resumption of arms control talks in Geneva. No radiation leaked into the atmosphere following the thermonuclear blast and no damage was reported in nearby desert towns.

Two infants undergo heart transplant surgery

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The unemployed parents of a 3-week-old boy watched over him Monday at Children's Hospital, where he became the hospital's youngest heart transplant recipient in a life-saving 10-hour operation. Just hours earlier, a 7-day-old infant had received a Valentine's Day heart transplant at Loma Linda University Medical Center in Loma Linda, Calif. Both babies suffered from hypoplastic left heart syndrome, a usually fatal underdevelopment of the left side of the heart that restricts its ability to pump blood.

Black students occupy building for fourth day

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — Students occupying a University of Massachusetts building for four days said Monday tension caused by a racially-motivated attack has begun to ease, but they vowed to hold the facility until their demands are met. An estimated 70 to 100 students are demanding five whites be expelled for allegedly attacking and shouting racial slurs at a white woman and two black men as they walked on campus on Feb. 7. A committee of the students was slated to meet today with the chancellor to discuss a refined set of demands, which the students would not release.

Man arrested in smoking ban incident on train

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commuter rail lines that carry over 200,000 passengers a day slapped a total ban on smoking on the lines Monday and one man punched a conductor in the face when told to put out his cigarette. The man was arrested and charged with harassment. It was, however, the only incident on the first day of the ban, which won't be fully tested until today when a full complement of riders was expected following Monday's holiday.

Black history focus of gathering

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

The Black Togetherness Organization took a trip through the history of black people on Saturday by duplicating scenes from the past during its second annual Cultural Excursion.

The excursion featured books, skits, speeches and musical entertainment dealing with Black History Month.

The gospel group Rapture provided musical entertainment during the event in the basement of Grinnell Hall. The group performed both traditional gospel songs as well as a few originals.

James Anderson Jr., manager and co-founder of the Carbondale-based group, said the group performs music that deals with the Bible, using modern beats and rhythms to capture the college crowd. He said the group also will perform at the Festival of Music, which will be held at the end of the month as a part of Black History Month.

Sharon Meeks, committee advisor to BTO, said the "Cultural Excursion" captured the history of black people. She added that the gospel group took part because "black people and gospel music go together like bread and butter."

A skit performance was given by a student group, Oldies but Goodies. The skit dealt with a group of old ladies trying to relive the music of their past and to get in touch with the music of today.

The group sang and danced to Motown favorites like "Midnight Train to Georgia" and danced to contemporary music.

Meeks said Motown has done so much for black people that the tribute was only natural.

T-shirts and buttons of black activists were on display along with pamphlets and books dealing with the history of black Americans.

Seminar offered for college credit

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer

For about the same cost as staying at SIU-C this summer, you could spend three weeks traveling in Greece and the west coast of Turkey and earn college credit while you are there.

The philosophy department and International Programs and Services will sponsor the fifth annual interdisciplinary, team-taught seminar in Ancient Greek experience from May 21 to June 12. The seminar will be held in the Eastern Greek Islands and West Coast of Turkey.

Three to nine credit hours can be earned at the undergraduate or graduate level in the areas of philosophy, general studies, zoology, botany and fine arts.

"Three things that distinguish the program are that it's interdisciplinary, team-taught, first-hand experience as opposed to just listening to lectures," says Robert Hahn, associate professor of philosophy and founder of the program.

"It's unlike conventional education in the sense that you're a doer; that you don't have to listen to one person for the whole three weeks. The approach is not in regards to a single subject," Hahn said.

The theme of this year's trip is "Making the Past Present." Participants will re-enact some of the stages of the Greek Archaic period which occurred during 800-650 B.C.

Highlights of the trip will include a stop in Athens to study the Greek Classical and Archaic periods, and a boat ride from the Greek island of Chios, the traditional birthplace of Homer, to the ancient city of Troy on the east coast of Turkey. "Hopefully we'll bring alive the material for people who would normally think, 'Troy? What Trojan War?'" said Hahn.

From Troy, participants will travel down the east coast of Turkey stopping in Pergamum and Sardes, the ancient capital of Lydia.

The rise of tyranny in the region during the sixth and seventh century B.C. and its relationship to the development of technology in mining, metallurgy and monumental architecture will be studied on the Eastern Greek island of Samos.

The trip will conclude with participants performing Aristophanes' play, "Clouds," with costumes made by the participants and performed in an ancient theater.

Council to look at funding hikes

The City Council is expected to approve $58,755 for community service organizations at its meeting at 7 tonight.

The allocations include:

—$2,903 for the Jackson County Community Mental Health Agency's Youth Services Program;

—$7,750 for the Women's Center, which helps abused women;

—$21,890 for the Senior Citizen's Program;

—$26,212 for the Attuck's Community Service Board.

The allocations amount to a 3.5-percent increase over last year. The council set up a formula last year restricting funding increases for community service organizations to 3.5 percent.

The Attuck's Community Service Board is the only group to request more than the proposed allocation. The amount recommended for the group is equal to what was left from the $58,755 after the other three groups had received funds.

The council also is expected to approve an increase in combined water and sewer fees from $3.34 to $3.64 for every 1,000 gallons used.

The rate for every 1,000 gallons of water used would increase from $1.40 to $1.62 and the rate for every 1,000 gallons of sewer used would increase from $1.94 to $2.02.

The minimum charge is $4.20 a month for 3,000 gallons of water.

The increase also probably will be applied to people who live outside Carbondale but purchase Carbondale water.

International fair a chance to learn

EVERY YEAR, THE International Festival gives SIU-C students a chance to travel from Kyoto to Paris to Kuala Lumpur without ever leaving Carbondale.

Short of spending time in other countries, there is no better way to learn about the rest of the world than to talk to people who are from there.

In hosting the International Festival, which begins today, SIU-C's international students show an intense desire to share their knowledge and interest in other parts of the world. The least Americans can do is be inquisitive and sensitive enough to attend the festival and let the international students teach them a few things.

The festival also is a good way to encourage interaction between international and U.S. students.

THE PROCESS OF assimilation into the SIU-C community is unimaginably difficult for many foreign students. Most try to blend into the student community by dressing like Americans and otherwise changing their lifestyles. But despite their efforts to fit in, many foreign students remain on the outside of the student body.

Much too often, foreign students are ignored or even laughed at by ignorant Americans, many of whom couldn't locate Canada on a map.

SIU-C students often view foreign students as dumb because they speak with an accent, or because they may not understand some of the things that Americans take for granted. But most foreign students are anything but dumb. Not only do they perform better in classes than American students, they do it in a foreign language.

IT IS UNCONSCIONABLE that many U.S. students do absolutely nothing to help international students, and, in many cases, make it harder on them.

It has been said that people tend to make fun of things they don't understand. This may be exactly what happens between American and foreign students. But the solution is simple.

American students must realize that there is a great deal to be learned from international students and make an effort to find out about their countries. Only by eliminating their ignorance about the rest of the world can American students destroy the senseless barrier between themselves and international students.

Opinions from elsewhere

Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock

Not too long ago, Japanese leaders apologized — sort of — to the Chinese, who had protested because a new Japanese history textbook presented the Rape of Nanking in a light not unfavorable to the Japanese. In fact, the Japanese were an invading army and the atrocities they committed at Nanking have been well documented, though the exact number of casualties can only be estimated.

Recently, it was reported that newsreel footage of the slaughter at Nanking is cut from the critically acclaimed film "The Last Emperor" when it is shown in Japan.

World War II was a terrible thing for everyone involved, including the Japanese, who have special reason to remember Hiroshima and Nagasaki and who want everyone else to remember them too. But if the human race is to learn from history, the learning can't be accomplished cafeteria-style, studying this segment and ignoring that one. It is not enough to reflect on how World War II ended. People and nations should also reflect on how the war began, painful though those reflections may be.

Legal abortions are much safer

When abortion was illegal, quite a few women still were having abortions. They had abortions in burned, deserted, unsanitary buildings and they used coat hangers. Many times the woman would die with her child and other times the woman would die later from some disease because of the unsanitary condition.

As it stands, there are women in the world who either want or need (because of some medical problem) an abortion. Under these circumstances, this would constitute a need for medical institutions that could accommodate the needs of these women. Furthermore, it is their bodies and their possible lives, thus it is their business. This decision should be discussed with the father and whoever else the women chooses to talk to about the situation.

I fail to see how a woman's decision in this matter should prompt a discussion between perfect strangers. How can the decisions of millions of women aggravate so many others when these people don't know the women who are having the abortions from Adam?

It comes down to this: we women all have a right to have an abortion or not have an abortion. If my next door neighbor decides to give up a life, then that is her business. Why should I make it my business?

I believe that a woman should be well informed before having an abortion. A woman and the father of the child, with the proper counseling, should be able to make a decision they can live with. They are the ones who are going to have to live with their decision, not you or me. How can a decision like this, made by somebody I don't even know, affect my life?

I am not a violent person and I have a great deal of compassion for life. I am also for individual freedom of choice and if someone chooses to destroy their baby that is absolutely nobody's business but their own. Try and look at it this way; if abortions were illegal again we might end up having to add to that mortality rate of 1.5 million. We would have to add in the bodies of all those dead women from having abortions in burned out buildings. — Vicki Aponte, Carbondale

Return black studies to general education

I am writing this letter to bring to your attention a great injustice. I refer to the exclusion of Black American Studies from the General Education curriculum. Although it is offered in the Black American Studies program, this does not begin to justify its exemption from the General Education curriculum.

Black American Studies was included at one time as a general education course, and then later dropped for unrevealed reasons.

As stated by Maulana Karenga in his book on the discipline of Black American Studies: "Black Studies represent a necessary and significant study of a particular form and part of humanity in certain socio-historical conditions."

When looking in the undergraduate catalog under general education courses, I found a rather limited view on the social aspect of education. Southern Illinois University is known for many things, including its diversity in students and culture. This diversity is not reflected in the educational programs offered, most of which are restricted to Western ideology.

The introduction of Black American Studies in the general education curriculum would offer that much needed diversity and at the same time fulfill a socially responsible obligation to our society. Darrie D. May, freshman, radio-television.

Fire the worker responsible for 'Motel Hell'

The Student Programming Council worker who scheduled the film, "Motel Hell" to be shown in the Student Center Auditorium should be fired — now. Last semester, I had the misfortune of seeing about ten minutes of this film. It is so unbelievably evil that I am stunned that anyone could have actually written or produced it.

Both the writer and producer are obviously very sick people who desperately need to be institutionalized for life. The same goes for the SPC worker who decided to pay money to rent this movie. If this is not possible, that person at least has to be banned from any job which would enable him or her to influence human beings in any way. This applies to the present as well as the future.

end of the state to another, a tactical decision that paid off richly, in the view of some Simon aides.

They were elated by new poll results that show Simon in a dead heat with the Missouri congressman.

"We have a tremendous comeback story here," said Paul Maslin, poll taker for the Simon campaign. "We were counted out by most of the world last week, and now we're on the verge of finishing a solid second."

Maslin added, "Everybody always said that in eight days you couldn't stop the momentum. Paul Simon did it."

Maslin was referring to the momentum that the winner in Iowa was expected to carry into New Hampshire's primary eight days later. Most polls showed Gephardt getting a lift from his victory in Iowa, but Simon stayed right at his heels.

Brian Lunde, the senator's campaign director, said fundraising had rebounded well in recent days, adding "Second place here would put fundraising right back on track."

Simon said as much as he traveled the state Monday in a final bid for support. At Newmarket High School, he was asked by a member of the audience if a third-place finish would amount to a knock-out blow for a Democrat in New Hampshire.

Not a close third, the candidate replied, but second would be better.

"Whoever finishes second is going to be helped financially," he said. "My race is in need of funds. If any of you want to be generous, we'd be happy to have your contributions."

The senator told his audiences that momentum was on his side, but added that "what you do in the next 24 hours or next 36 hours" could be crucial.

He urged New Hampshire voters to assert their independence and not vote for Dukakis "just because he shares your border."

said. The soldiers and their unit were not identified.

Israel has been condemned internationally for its use of physical force, including beatings, to crush protests. Hundreds of Arabs have been beaten, some allegedly without cause, since Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin announced the policy Jan. 19.

The announcement came as the Unified National Command of the Uprising, a coalition of four leftist factions of the Palestine Liberation Organization and a group of PLO-aligned Islamic fundamentalists, distributed leaflets calling for a new wave of anti-Israel violence.

The coalition, believed to be organizing the 9-week-old rioting that has left at least 54 Palestinians dead, urged Palestinians to stage a general strike Tuesday and to step up confrontations with Israeli soldiers as part of a "war of attrition."

For the first time, protest leaders also publicly called for attacks on the 63,000 Jewish settlers living among 1.5 million Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza, seized from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East War. The leaflets said attacks on the settlers would damage Israeli morale and disrupt the economy.

Tensions between settlers and Palestinians have risen in recent weeks. At least two Arab protesters have been shot to death by settlers and rock- and firebomb-throwing protesters have attacked a number of civilians. Militant settlers have begun patrolling roads in the territories, vowing to take the law into their own hands, vigilante style, if the attacks continue.

program has been singled out for elimination. "Black American Studies, like other academic programs over the past three years, has suffered reductions," he said.

Bryson said he's never been involved in discussions with anyone about reducing and weakening the program.

He also said the University is continuing to search for qualified faculty for the BAS program.

Tripp wrote that the administration has only "pretended to look for new faculty" since instructors Locksley Edmondson and Maria Mootry left the University.

Tripp said the University has not hired a full-time replacement since Edmondson left in 1983.

Bryson said the administration began the search for full-time faculty "only a year ago." He also said that he believed the quality of instruction has improved since the staff professional's volunteered to replace Edmondson and Mootry.

Tripp wrote that the exclusion of BAS courses from the general education program "implied that people of African ancestry have not contributed anything to world civilization worthy of serious systematic study."

He also wrote that the exclusion undermined the program "by reducing its visibility and its course enrollment."

Police: Student killed self

Police reports indicate the death of a University student Friday night was a suicide.

A garden hose near the body of Steven Reel, 31, a graduate student in computer science, was attached to a furnace gas line in Reel's apartment at 202-A Gray Drive, according to Carbondale police reports.

Doors and windows were locked from the inside.

Carbondale firefighters and public utility employees found Reel lying in bed at 7:06 p.m. while investigating a gas leak reported by neighbors.

Reel's body was taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital.

Adviser: Black studies dismantled, needs saving

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

The Black American Studies program is being dismantled "slowly but surely," Sharon Meeks, student activist and committee adviser to the Black Togetherness Organization, says.

During a "cultural excursion" Saturday in the basement of Grinnell Hall, Meeks answered questions from the audience about the future of the BAS program and addressed rumors about the firing of Luke Tripp, assistant professor in the School of Social Work.

Seymour Bryson, dean of the College of Human Resources, has denied charges by Tripp that the BAS program is being dismantled. He also has said that Tripp's application for tenure is being reviewed by Benjamin Shepherd, acting vice president for academic affairs.

Meeks told the group of students at Grinnell that it is up to them to save the BAS program. She said the program teaches people to look beyond the surface of things and to think "analytically, intellectually and conceptually."

Meeks said the resignation of Maria Mootry, assistant professor in the School of Social Work, in the spring of 1986, is another indication of the dismantling of the BAS program.

She compared the program to a chair with Mootry and Tripp as the legs. "The legs of the chair are being removed, which is destabilizing the program," Meeks said.

She urged students to investigate the notion that the program is safe by putting pressure on the University and President John C. Guyon.

However, Bryson said, "We're in the process of working with a group of faculty and students to work on a proposal that will work towards the reinstatement of a Black American Studies course."

Correction

Joe Camille, director of the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, did not say a survey that helped determine how much financial aid students receive was flawed. He did not agree with Graduate and Professional Student Council members who charged that the survey inadequately estimated expenses for many students.

The Feb. 12 edition of the Daily Egyptian incorrectly reported Camille's statements to the GPSC. The DE apologizes to Mr. Camille for the error.

Poitier's new film, 'Shoot to kill' grabs audiences' total attention

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

It's wonderful to see a great actor like Sidney Poitier back on the movie screen.

It's even more wonderful to see Poitier get a role he deserves and which he seems to cherish throughout the movie.

It would be hard to imagine "Shoot to Kill" without Poitier. His caliber of acting is so sorely lacking in most movies that it is refreshing to allow him to take absolute possession of your attention for almost two hours.

Poitier plays an aging FBI man trying to salvage his pride by tracking a ruthless killer who has painfully outwitted him. The chase leads Poitier into the mountains of Vancouver, British Columbia, where the killer has joined a guided tour going into Canada.

Poitier teams up with Tom Berenger, a mountain guide who also has something at stake. Berenger's girlfriend, played by Kirstie Alley, is the guide who is unwittingly leading the killer over the border.

Poitier and Berenger are polar opposites who must depend on each other to track the killer — Poitier, because he needs a guide through the mountains, and Berenger, because Poitier is the one man who knows how the killer thinks.

The movie is at its best when it concentrates on the relationship between Poitier and Berenger. Gradually, both men learn to trust and depend upon each other, but only after each has saved the other's life.

Poitier is at his best during the journey into the mountains. In the mountains he is like a fish out of water, and Poitier conveys his situation with great humor. Some of his most humorous scenes occur without dialogue. Berenger, who was nominated for an Academy Award for his role in "Platoon," does a fine job, but next to Poitier his role is diminished and he seems to allow Poitier to command the movie.

Poitier is such a consummate actor that he does his own stunt work. It was hard to believe seeing Poitier, at 60 years of age, run after the killer, jump on top of the hood of a car, jump off and continue the chase.

"Shoot to Kill" is filled with action and suspense, and director Robert Spottiswoode does a fine job of pacing both. Spottiswoode keeps the killer's identity secret for about half the movie and during the guided tour he cleverly leaves the viewer guessing who the killer is.

The ending of the movie seems rushed, but that feeling may be the result of a simple desire for the movie to never end and to see Poitier act on.

Stress, poor diet contribute to sleep disorders

By Pamela Warren
Wellness Center

"I've got a big test tomorrow and as usual I can't get to sleep."

"I often wake up in the middle of the night and just lay staring at the ceiling."

Sound familiar? At times, most everyone has trouble falling or staying asleep. Sleep disturbances are often quite frustrating, but are rarely harmful. Most people have different sleep needs with some people requiring considerably less sleep than others. In fact, the same person can vary the amount of sleep needed from night to night. Rigidly thinking that you must get a certain amount of sleep each night can sometimes actually contribute to sleeplessness.

If you are consistently experiencing difficulty in falling or staying asleep, you may want to examine your lifestyle to see if you can identify conditions that may be causing the problem. For example, stress, inactivity, poor diet habits or environment often contribute to sleeping difficulties.

To Your Health

Here are some actions you can take to improve your sleep:

Get more physical and mental activity into your life. Cut out all daytime naps and exercise regularly. Dr. Richard Allen, co-director of the Hopkins Sleep Disorders Center recommends late afternoon workouts for better sleep. Fast walking for 30 to 45 minutes, swimming, biking, jogging, or any other kind of daily aerobic exercise is often the key to better sleep at night.

Look at your diet. Try to cut down on fat, nicotine, caffeine, and sugar while adding more whole grains, fruits, and vegetables. Add tuna fish, low-fat milk and cottage cheese, baked beans, and turkey which contain the amino acid, tryptophan. Tryptophan has been found to induce sleep naturally.

Avoid over-the-counter drugs and other self-mediations. Sleeping pills, alcohol and drugs all diminish or distort sleep. These "instant" cures tend to have short-lived results and often produce a "rebound effect" that may prolong sleep problems.

If you think that your sleep problems are related to tension, you can learn several effective techniques such as deep breathing, progressive muscle relaxation, and other stress management techniques.

Bush and Dole face close contest in N.H.

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — New Hampshire voters heard the final appeals of the presidential candidates Monday before casting ballots in the nation's first primary that could change the shape of the 1988 campaign for the White House.

Public opinion polls indicated a dead heat in the Republican race between Vice President George Bush and Sen. Robert Dole. Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis was sitting pretty on a huge lead in the Democratic race while the real battle was for second place.

The campaigns of the five Republicans and seven Democrats revved up for massive get-out-the vote drives and bombarded the airwaves with television ads geared toward snagging that one voter who could make a difference in the hard-fought primary election Tuesday.

Bands of well-scrubbed young volunteers for competing camps buttonholed voters across the Granite State.

On Concord's Main Street, workers carrying placards for Democrats Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and Gary Hart and Republican Pete du Pont competed with a roving sound truck making the case for Democrat Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee. Two candidates — Dukakis and Democrat Bruce Babbitt — showed up personally.

Simon stood near the Massachusetts line to urge voters to ignore their proximity to Dukakis' "economic miracle" in the neighboring New England state when making their choices Tuesday.

"Don't vote for somebody just because he shared your border," the Illinois senator said. "You have an opportunity to send a powerful message far beyond this border to the entire nation."

Election eve polls indicated Dukakis enjoyed a lead of as much as 25 percent with Simon and Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri clawing each other for second place. In the GOP race, Dole led narrowly in most polls though one gave him 8 percentage points on Bush and another gave Bush a slender 1 percent edge.

triple jump with 47-11. Freshman Patrick Williams finished third with 46-5 1/2.

Bret Garrett, who is hoping to qualify for the national championships in the 800-meter run, won the 600-yard dash in 1:11.64. Garrett did not compete in the 800.

"He (Garrett) can't run the same race every week and not get stale at it," Cornell said. "He ran a shorter race for a speed workout."

Jobie Kelly won the 800 in 1:54.70 and Gerard Horan finished second in 1:55.85.

Guy Sikora won the 55-meter dash in 6.51 and also placed fifth in the 200 in 22 seconds. David Beauchem won the 1,000-meter run in 2:16.79.

SIU-C's mile relay team of Billie King, Kevin Steele, Garrett and Erick Pegues won with a time of 3:18.64. The two-mile team of Horan, Joe Taylor, John Stinson and Kelly won with a time of 8:04.36.

All-American Andy Pettigrew, who is recovering from mononucleosis, dropped out of the 3,000-meter run with a half mile to go, Cornell said.

"Andy is trying to bounce back from mononucleosis. He has been training very hard this week," Cornell said.

Women swimmers improve to 7-7 record

The women's swim team is 6-1 in the second half of the season after victories over Vanderbilt and Iowa State University last weekend at the Recreation Center pool.

On Saturday, the team evened its season record at 7-7 by defeating Vanderbilt 58-53 and ISU 59-42 in dual meets. The Salukis had a 1-6 record for the first half of the season.

"I'm proud of the way the team stuck with it in the second half," Coach Doug Ingram said. "It's easy to roll over when you're 1-6."

"It's been a transitional year for them," he said. "I'm their fourth coach in the last five years, so they've had to make a lot of adjustments."

The team's seniors, who were honored in a ceremony before the meet, led the way with victories in six events.

"I'm proud of the way the team stuck with it in the second half."

—Coach Doug Ingram

Senior co-captain Lori Rea won the 50-yard freestyle, and senior co-captain Karen McIntyre won the 200-yard butterfly. Suella Miller, Jackie Taljaard, Amy Witherite and diver Celia Gales also had wins.

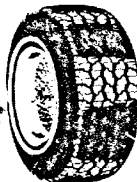

Sophomore Kathi Wire had wins in the 200- and 500-yard freestyle events. The Salukis also won the 200- and 400-yard freestyle relays.

"We've had a good second half and we had a lot of fast times," Ingram said.

Men swimmers beat five teams, win Saluki Invitational

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The men's swim team, led by senior Kevin Nagy and sophomores Harri Garmendia and Scott Roberts, beat five teams to win the 20th Saluki Invitational this weekend at the Recreation Center pool.

The team set two invitational records and won 14 of the 20 events. The Salukis finished with 927.5 points, while Western Illinois placed second with 660. Auburn, Western Kentucky, Missouri and Drury followed.

Nagy, competing for the last time at the Recreation Center pool, anchored the winning 200- and 400-yard medley and 400-yard freestyle relay teams. The 200 medley team of Nagy, Roberts, Lee Cary and Jeff Goelz set an invitational record with a time of 1:33.77.

Nagy also came from behind to win the 100-yard freestyle in 46.73, just nipping Western Kentucky's Dan Powell by two one-hundredths of a second.

"Kevin did a great job coming from behind to win that one," Coach Doug Ingram said. "It looked like he won it on the last stroke."

Garmendia and Roberts each had three wins. Garmendia broke his invitational record in the 200-yard butterfly with a time of 1:47.96, and also won the 500-yard freestyle and 200-yard individual medley. Roberts won the 200-yard freestyle and the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

Eric Bradac won the 1,650-yard freestyle, an event which Ingram said he would like Bradac to qualify for in the NCAA's. Bradac finished in 15:41.11; the qualifying time is 15:22.24.

"Eric had his best time so far in that event, but he can do better," Ingram said. "He really didn't have any true competition today, and that hurt him."

Goelz won the 50-yard freestyle in 21.10. SIU-C also won the 200- and 800-yard freestyle relays.

"This was a good win for us against some competitive schools," Ingram said. "Auburn didn't have their full lineup with them, but anytime you swim as well as we did against a Southeastern Conference school, you have to be pleased."

Ingram said he hopes to make the Saluki Invitational both a men's and women's event next year.

"I'd also like to have it a weekend earlier," he said. "This late in the season, a lot of teams are preparing for their conference championships, and if we had it earlier I think we could attract some more schools."

Salukis' defense destroys Tulsa

The Salukis returned the favor and beat Tulsa 77-56 Monday at the Arena.

As hot as the Hurricanes' shooting touch was in their 93-74 win against the Salukis in Tulsa, it was as cold in Carbondale.

"It was two different worlds," Kai Nurnberger said. Tulsa shot an anemic 19 percent from the field in the first half compared to 75 percent in the teams' first meeting. The Salukis only shot 38 percent but were able to build a 25-16 lead by the half on the strength of their aggressive defense.

"It wasn't pretty," Nurnberger said. "We had some trouble shooting in the first half but we played good defense."

The Salukis frustrated Tulsa's offense by switching back and forth from a zone to a man-to-man defense.

"That's by far the best defensive basketball game we've played since I've been here," Coach Rich Herrin said.

Tulsa's all-conference guard Tracy Moore had a horrendous shooting night. Moore, who scored a career-high 41 points against the Salukis in Tulsa, was 0 for 9 in the first half, including two air balls. He wound up with 12 points on five for 21 shooting.

"We did a tremendous job on Tracy Moore," Herrin said.

In the second half, Tulsa cut the lead to 40-37. Steve Middleton then hit two consecutive three-pointers to start the Salukis on a 25-9 run.

The win snapped a 16-game Saluki losing streak against Tulsa. The Salukis, 9-14 overall and 4-7 in the Valley, moved into sixth place. Tulsa dropped to 7-16 overall and 3-7 in the conference.

Middleton, who scored just two points in the first half, finished with a game-high 25. He entered the game with some added incentive.

"When we went to their place they really put it to us," Middleton said. "Down the stretch at their place I thought they could have taken out some of their starters when they had the game won decisively. That put a little bit more fire in my eyes."

Nurnberger broke a mini-slump and scored 24.

"It was nice to see Kai Nurnberger bounce back," Herrin said.

Randy House chipped in 12 points for the Salukis and led the team with nine rebounds. Tim Richardson grabbed eight rebounds.

The Salukis sealed the game at the free-throw line. Holding a 55-44 lead with six minutes left, the Salukis' offense spreaded out and ran time off the clock. Tulsa was forced to send the Salukis to the free-throw line. The Salukis made 21 of 26 free throws for 81 percent.

Tulsa finished shooting 34 percent from the field. The Salukis shot 54 percent.

Tulsa's three-point shooting was dismal. The Hurricanes hit three of 17 attempts for 18 percent.

The men's track team won 11 of 17 events to finish ahead of favored Indiana State in the Eastern Illinois Invitational this weekend.

"I kind of thought Indiana State would outscore us, but they left five or six good people at home with the flu bug," Coach Bill Cornell said.

SIU-C scored 74 points Saturday, followed by Indiana State, 40, host EIU, 39, and Southwest Missouri, 30.

The Salukis dominated the field events, winning five of the six. In the shot put, the only field event the team lost, Ron Harter finished third and Eric Bomball placed fourth.

Harter, an outdoor all-American in the discus, won the 35-pound weight with a throw of 58-5 1/4.

Junior Brian Bradley took first in the long jump with a leap of 23-9 1/2. Bradley won the indoor and outdoor Missouri Valley Conference titles in the long jump last season. Bradley also placed fourth in the 200-meter dash in 22.97 seconds.

Shane Weber won the pole vault with a personal best 16-3. Demetrius Theodorou won the high jump at a height of 6-11.

Middleton, Bird share MVC honor

Saluki guard Steve Middleton and Indiana State's Eddie Bird have been named the Missouri Valley Conference co-Players of the Week.

Middleton scored 67 points in two games last week. His season average raises to 24.7, second in the Valley to Bradley's Hersey Hawkins. Middleton shot 52 percent from the field, 94 percent from the free-throw line, and made six of 11 three-pointers.

Bird scored 58 points in three games. He made 27 in the double-overtime win against Tulsa. Bird had 19 rebounds, 15 assists and shot 52.8 percent from the field.
